San Francisco's Westin St. Francis in the heart of Union Square has completed a $45 million renovation.

The historic building, erected in 1804, has 618 guestrooms and four specialty suites on 12 floors.

Dallas-based Forest Perkins decorated the hotel to evoke the feeling that San Francisco is “The Paris of the West.” The new color scheme is a blend of Parisian blue, goldenrod yellow, and peony pink.

Original features such as crystal chandeliers, crown molding, and high ceilings from the early 1900s have been kept.
