The Bay Area's hotel surge isn't stopping anytime soon. Here, our favorites of the new and not-so-old.

Inn at the Presidio

For a less urban option, book a two-room King Suite at this 26-room inn located in the area's forested parkland. With its 24 miles of hiking trails, 25 miles of biking trails, and an 18-hole golf course, the park feels like an extension of the Georgian revival-style inn, which features country-style décor and views of the Golden Gate Bridge. This summer, the Inn will open a sister property, the 42-room Lodge at the Presidio, also within the park. Rooms from $295; innatthepresidio.com.
